

Uh oh... Where'd all the Impatiens go?

Impatiens are under attack by a disease called Impatiens downy mildew. Downy mildew kills standard bedding and double Impatiens (Impatiens walleriana). On a happy note, other garden plants are safe from this disease, including New Guinea Impatiens.

Early symptoms

Advanced stages

Yikes! What should I plant in the shade instead?

Dragon Wing Red Begonia

Begonias

Divine Lavender New Guinea Impatiens

New Guinea Impatiens Don't worry... we're not affected by Impatiens Downy Mildew!

Redhead Coleus

Coleus

Ask any of our garden center staff for more great shade-loving alternatives!